

OWL GROUP – SE ASIA'S LEADING POWER ENGINEERING CONSULTANCY

Consultancy is a service industry and so client relationships and people skills are critical thankfully OWL is built on the service with a smile for which SE Asia is renowned. In addition we have the software resources and deep knowledge base that can compete (and often outperform) any of our global competitors. The added bonus is that because we started life in ASEAN we understand the markets in this region better than anyone. OWL has worked throughout East Asia and has major offices in Manila and Bangkok with plans to open an office in Singapore in the foreseeable future

OWL is not just a consultant but also a developer of power assets. We currently have a meteorological mast installed for a wind project and are also working on a plantation based biomass project. As Warren Buffett says "invest in what you know" and OWL truly knows the power industry.

OWL has the technical and techno-commercial understanding to take any energy project from its initial concept and develop it into a profitable asset. We also have local and regional connections within the industry that span fuel suppliers, developers, lenders and insurers meaning that OWL can commence working on a project when it is just a twinkle in someone's eye then act as consultant and advisor to bring the project through to the point that revenue flows.
